

Nancy Sekhokoane

Acclaimed South African performer, Nancy Sekhokoane completed her Bachelor's Degree in Live Performance at AFDA Cape Town, the South African School of Motion Picture Medium thereafter she won the 54th Annual Fleur du Cap Theatre Award for Most Promising Student for 2018. In 2019, she completed LAMTA, Launchpad - Musical Theatre Training with Anton Luitingh and Duane Alexander. Her resumé includes commercials for Sanlam and Chicken Licken as well as films such as Redeeming Love, directed by DJ Caruso, currently set to release in 2021. Her most recent theatre production "He Had it Coming" is a one-woman show, in which she plays 19 characters, that confronts issues such as Gender Based Violence and Patriarchism written by Mike van Graan. She continuously trains and exercises her unique voice, stretching her range and character diversity while developing her gift for animation and experience with corporate voice over work.

Image: Tongue Twisters