

Graeme Bunce

Underneath the James Bond smoothness is actually a goofy and frenetic big kid: English Sophistication on top of a jocular Nuttiness. So the Tom Ellis type. Imagine the culmination of a young Hugh Grant and a much younger Colin Firth in Kingsman. Graeme has charisma in spades along with a big heart and huge intelligence - all balanced with that particular British effervescent humor. All that said, Graeme is skilled at a variety of dialects and accents; this enables him to play a variety of American characters as well.
